DEDICATION

The Class of 1987 expresses its sincerest gratitude to Mr. James Gregor. As teacher, coach, and friend, his ready smile and good cheer have inspired both the students and faculty of Suffield High. In appreciation for all his support, we fondly dedicate the 1987 Sagitta to Mr. James Gregor.

APPRECIATION

The Class of 1987 extends its sincere thanks and deep appreciation to Mr. Frank Pacocha and Mr. Louis Wanat for their leadership and support. As class advisors, their guidance has been beneficial to the success of our many class activities. We are grateful for their hard work and effort.

On the journey that's been our lives . . .

We've traveled on roads made by others.

But we chose our own destinations . . .

And so we make these paths our own.

We came to the shores of this land . . .

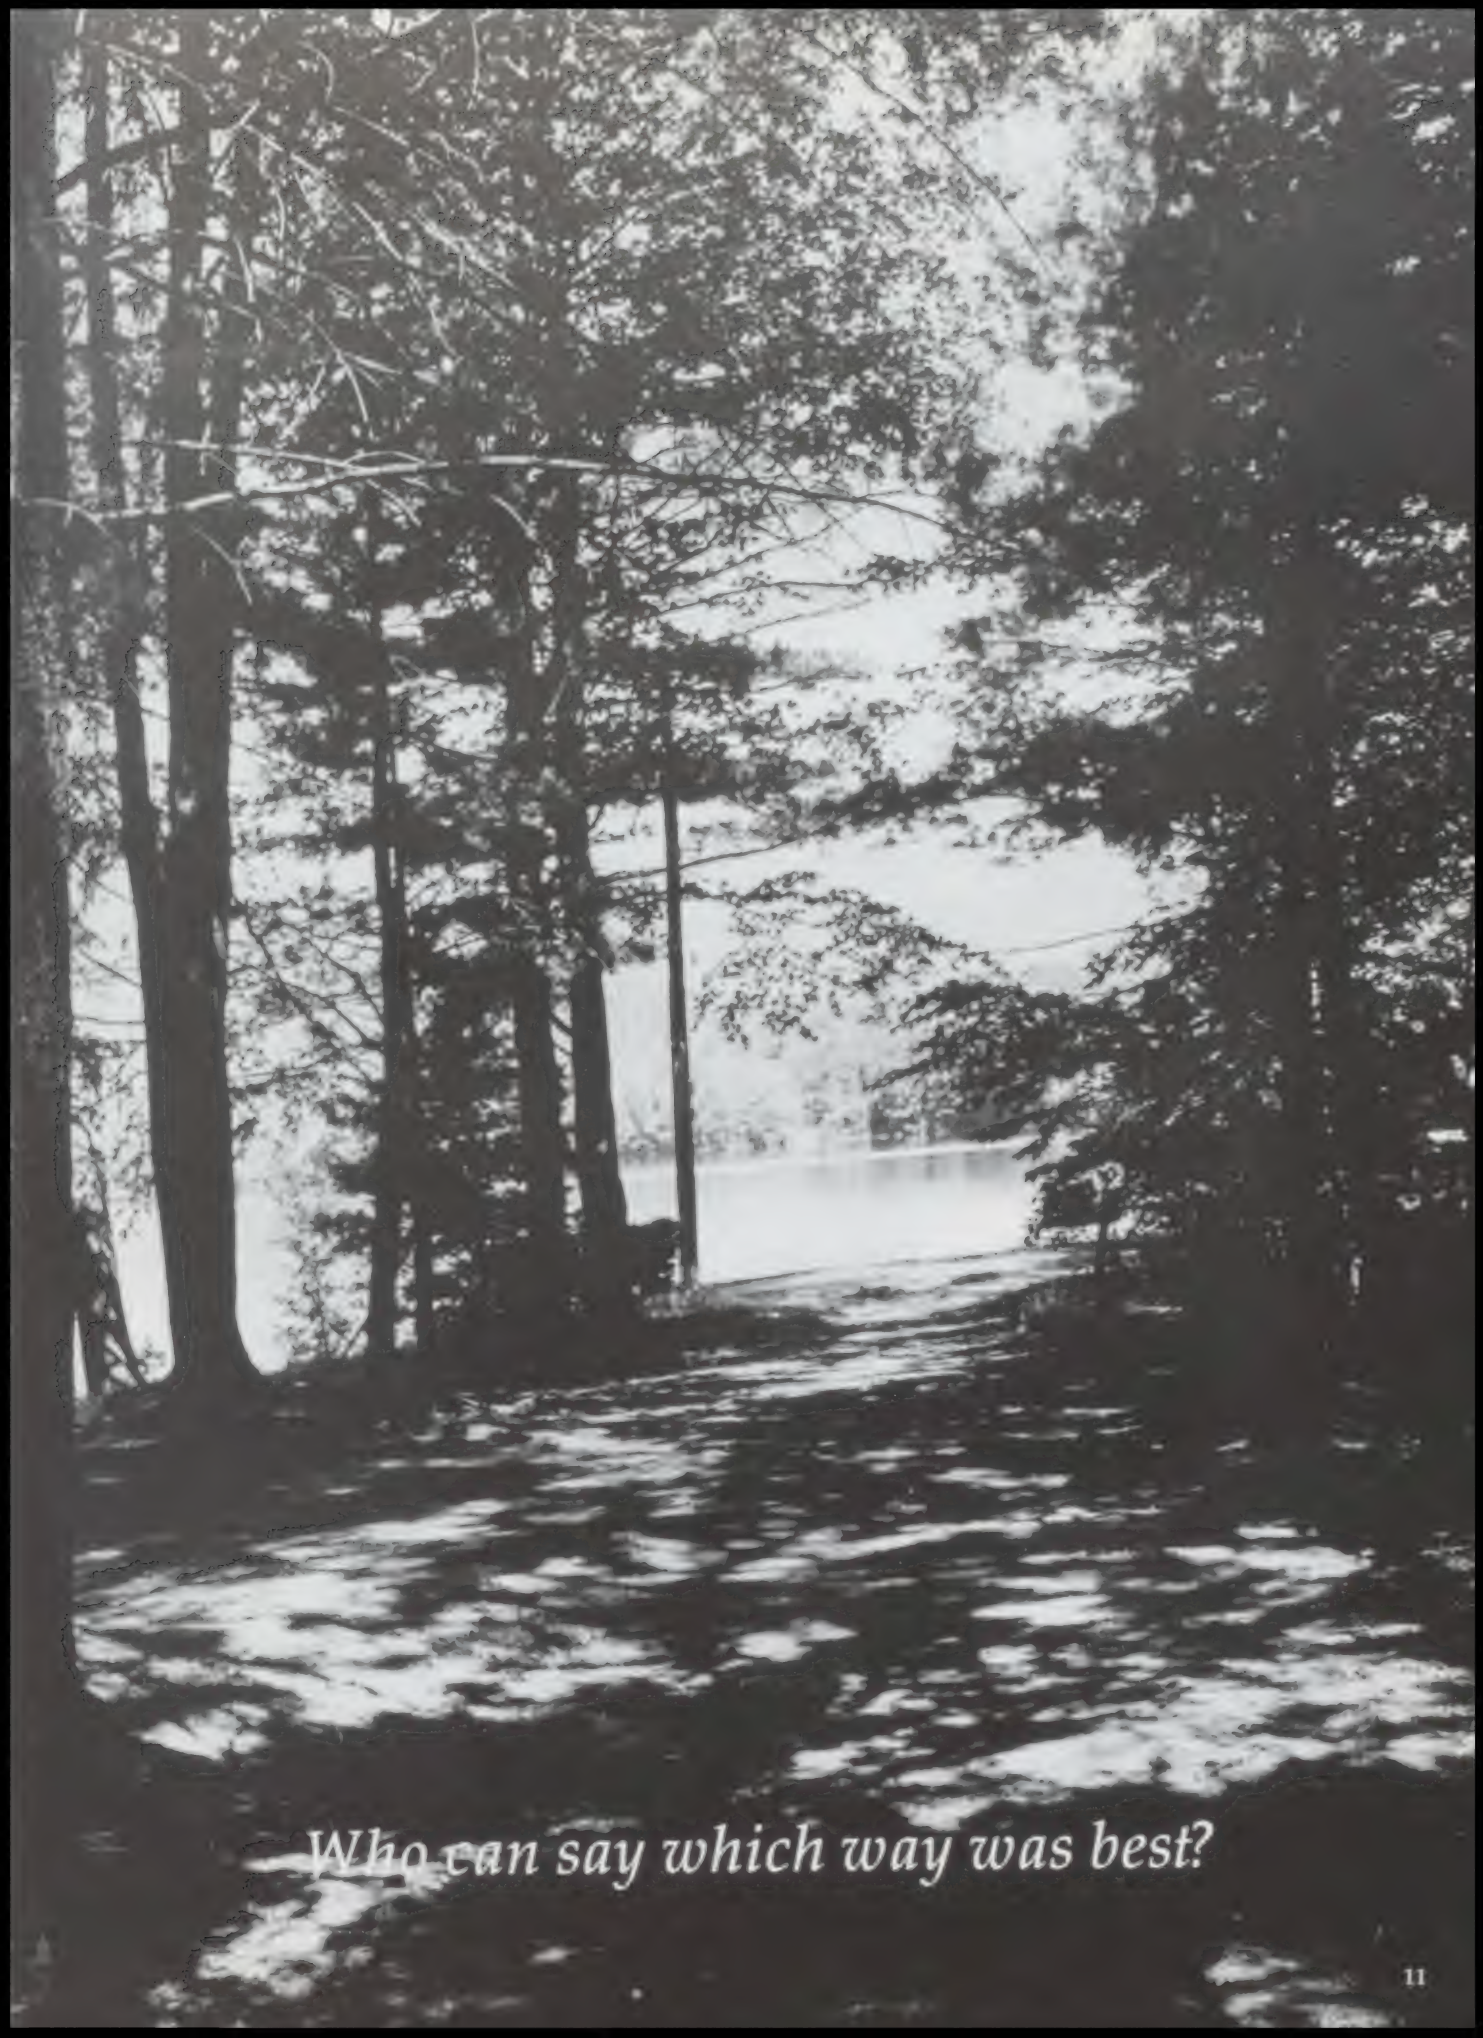

Then each went his own way . . .

Alone and together.

Who can say which way was best?

*Good Luck
Class of 1987*

We all have our own separate pathways to take,
Our own destinations to choose.
We all have our own contributions to make,
Our own talents to use.
We all have our own kind of life to pursue,
Our own kinds of dreams to be weaving.
... and we all have the power in ourselves,
to make wishes come true.

TEACHER OF THE YEAR

The students and staff of Suffield High School salute Mr. Paul Thomas as 1986-87 Teacher of the Year. He has earned the respect of the entire school community for his unflagging dedication and enthusiasm. During his years at Suffield, he has instilled pride and incentive in students and athletes alike. We are most grateful for his personal contributions to Suffield High.

CONGRATULATIONS

ENGLISH

Gimme a B, a bouncy B!

Can I look at you now?

If they could just stay little 'til their Carters wear out.

Gimme a hard time, I mess up your face!

ENGLISH

Sub for metalshop? . . . In this dress?

Nobody knows I dialed Rent-a-Friend.

That Vanna White woman has nothing on me.

Fifteen words a minute . . . let's work on that!

This ought to perk up my plants a little!

MATH

Welcome to Hee-Haw, take 1.

How do you program one of these things?

C'mon baby, do the locomotion.

Does this look natural enough?

MATH

Ooo! I think that went down the wrong way.

Welcome to Hee-Haw, take 2.

O.K. — in rounds now.

Ed Grous — Cremora junkie.

SCIENCE

I will not have my wife working in metal shop!

Oh boy . . . that flight really wore me out.

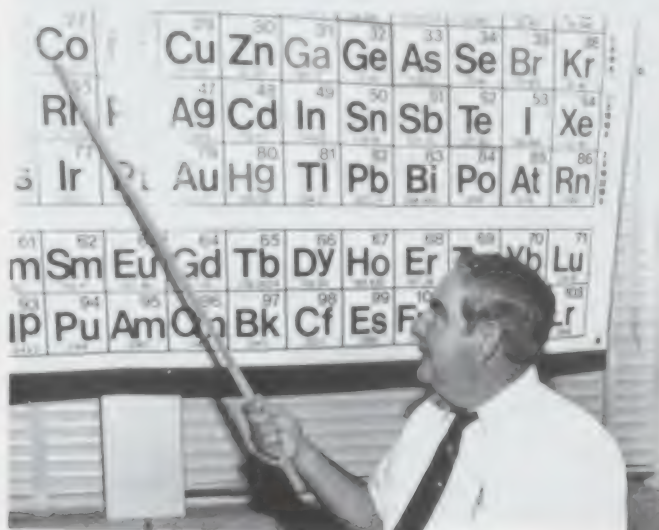

Got one of those amoebers in my eye!

Don't I look like I can be reasoned with? Don't I?

The earth wants you!

All together now . . .

SOCIAL SCIENCE

The parents won't pay until they hear the kid's voice.

Salon perm? No, Ogilvie.

Take me back to dear old Honshu.

Hey — don't knock my belt buckle!

Huh? Yeah? Huh? Huh? Yeah?

Stir up the Campbell's; soup is good food.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

First of all, Guatemala needs more Holiday Health Spas.

Hey, like WOW!

... and my ancestors originated right there.

Wait . . . You can't just walk out like that!

Would you believe I turned down an offer to model for L. Bean?

I think I'm on the verge of phasing out.

BUSINESS

Penny got what? Stuck where?

I was a poster girl during the war.

How do I look now?

These will be six of the toughest weeks of your lives!

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

You're not going anywhere — so just sit back, relax, and listen to the music.

You're going to eat that?!

Working hard, or hardly working?

We're hoping it'll fix itself.

Smooth as a baby.

VO-AG, ART & MUSIC

Someday I'll learn to read this stuff.

Stand back, this one's going to blow!

The Candy Man can.

Mr. Green and I worked out a deal for it.

If I have to pot another geranium . . .

Charles Mavrelion — "Vegetable Rights Advocate"

GUIDANCE & PE

Is that Barbara in the shower?

Oh my God, the fire alarm! Where's my towel?

C'mon, Kev — of course the Sox will win the Series.

Target practice will be on freshmen today.

You got a 500 on your SAT's . . . No kidding!

Another day, another dollar.

It's not great, but it's my best side.

Mom said my face would freeze this way.

What are those freshmen doing?

He's got a pretty mean step.

I'm becoming one of them.

I enjoy doing janitorial work during my spare time.

Gimme 20 on Trigger in the third heat.

You just relax, the shock treatment comes later.

I'm going to have it removed.

I just had my annual checkup at the dentist.

This is the last time I buy generic pantyhose.

Yes Mom, I have clean socks on!

Barbara Colturi — Woman of the 80's.

I'll go in, but I won't look.

I feel so dynamic.

What would you do for a Klondike bar?!

You want me to type all of these papers?!

Kristin did what?!

BEACH DAY

Senior Sno-Ball
"Why Can't This Night
Go On Forever"
February 7, 1987

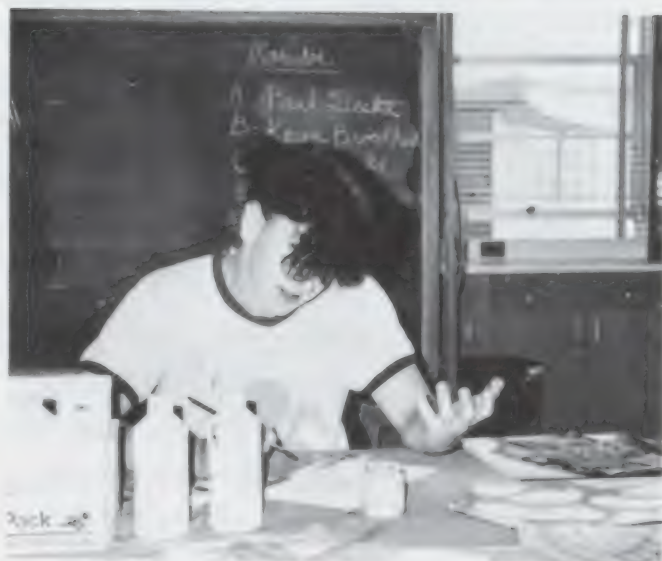

The days passed us by like wind-blown leaves, while we watched their growth in mirrors and each other.

But we became confused; for some grew inward and some out;

A few grew apart, but more together.

There were those who increased in knowledge, and those in understanding.

Still others increased in ways known only to themselves.

Who can say which way is best?

A SPECIAL THANKS TO . . .

The Class of 1987 would like to express its sincere appreciation to Mr. Francis Aniello. He has been a strong inspiration to the athletes of Suffield High School. In the 1985 basketball season, Mr. Aniello led the WILDCATS to a state championship victory. The following year, Mr. Aniello's dedicated coaching brought the team to the semi-finals. The Senior Class appreciates Mr. Aniello's superior coaching qualities, but moreover, values his friendship.

CLASS

Leaving the comfort and security of McAlister Middle School, we found ourselves thrust into the ominous environment of Suffield High. As newcomers, we anxiously set out to earn the respect of the upperclassmen and earnestly tried to become an integral part of the school system. It was as freshmen that we experienced our first high-school dance, ordered our blue and white Suffield Wildcat jackets, chose our high school sports, and became familiar with what was and what was not acceptable. It was a year of many beginnings, in which we set new goals and learned corresponding responsibilities.

The following September we returned to the high school as rejuvenated, eager sophomores. We promptly ordered our rings and set our eyes on the date of their arrival. Amazing ourselves and the entire school with our creative Twelve Days of Christmas display, we won the Deck the Halls competition hands down. Our year was highlighted by the victory of the varsity boys' basketball team, which captured the Class S Division State Championship. A sense of pride pervaded the school. This culmination of events made our second year in high school a success, and we left for summer vacation with new-found confidence in knowing that we were now upperclassmen.

We carried this air of distinction as juniors back to the high school in September. Many of us returned, bearing the coveted driver's license and were experiencing the freedom that comes with decision-making. Some of us struggled to fine-tune the balance between jobs and school. Somehow we managed, and found the time to raise money for our class through the perennial candy sale. Then, with the emergence of spring, came our long-awaited prom.

HISTORY

We danced the night away to the strains of "For Just a Moment," but found the beach a bit cold the next day. As our approaching senior year became more of a reality to us, we began planning for future goals. We spent one fine Saturday morning in May pushing no. 2 pencils in the name of scholastic aptitude. Finally June sixteenth arrived and the summer was upon us.

We entered our senior year with mixed emotions of anticipation and anxiety. The order of the day was meticulously filling out our college applications. This, however, didn't inhibit us from participating in other exciting school functions. 1986 was the year of our magazine drive, a fundraiser that we needed badly, since we were on the verge of bankruptcy. But our lack of funds didn't prevent us from being openly selfless and charitable. The seniors, aware of the plight of the hungry, organized a canned goods drive that ranked right up there with Live Aid, Unicef, and the Concert for Bangladesh. We were martyrs in our own time — but still martyrs that knew how to dress up and party, at the senior prom and semi-formal. We topped the year off by returning to Chez Josef for our Senior Banquet, where we received our yearbooks (which the Sagitta staff had worked so hard and long to produce). Aware now that our days here were numbered, we reminisced with old friends about our kindergarten days when life held no pressures or responsibilities. We now knew, more acutely than ever, that those days were over for us, and that the time had come for us to move on. We left the comfort and security of Suffield High in anticipation of a bright and fulfilling future.

CLASS

On May 15, 1997, the Suffield High School principal received the first anonymous, threatening phone call from a supposed right-wing group of Latin scholars who apparently were displeased with a certain Eileen Kinney's unprecedented and radical teaching methods. Dr. Johnson, in a valiant effort, alerted Secretary of Defense Beth Sullivan in hopes of finding someone to protect Mrs. Kinney from these violent Latin graduates. Quick thinking prompted Beth to alert radio broadcaster Terry Stearns, who immediately dropped all important matters at hand and called a class meeting, in which he outlined the developing situation to fellow alumni. After several hours of heated discussion, a decision was made: Mrs. Kinney must be spared! Plans were then formulated and the operation was put into effect under the close supervision of CIA agent Chuck Looby.

The plans went into effect June 16, 1997, ten years after graduation, and Colleen Bland, world-renowned French interpreter, disguised as a student in Mrs. Kinney's classroom, waited anxiously for the operation to begin. In the distance she heard the ominous drone of the helicopters. She knew it was now or never. Getting up from her seat, she drew out her machine gun, sprayed the window for dramatic effect and forced screaming Mrs. Kinney out onto the roof. The chopper, donated by Amy Hixon, self-made millionaire and owner of a large corporate tourism business, landed, and out jumped pilot Greg Goodrich with Whitney Graham, beautiful as ever, in tow. They grabbed Mrs. Kinney and thrust her into the aircraft. Awaiting her were Looby, who informed her as to why she was being taken hostage, and lawyers Ann Newman and Christine Klaus, who discussed her legal rights. Also on hand were Richard Flagg and Gregg Harbold, aircraft maintenance specialists, to take care of any possible complications. Their destination was Jamaica, where Patricia Fortier still basked in the sun after graduating a decade earlier. More precisely, they were off to Janet Horan's exclusive hotel, managed and operated jointly by Horan and Amy Little. Adjacent to the hotel was Andy Bennett's and Robert Ryan's world-famous Chinese restaurant. Both promised that Mrs. Kinney would at no time lack good, wholesome food while in exile.

The chopper approached the secluded Jamaican airstrip, and with the aid of air traffic controllers Tim Greenwood and Jim Muska, managed to land safely. Awaiting the chopper was a limo provided by Matt MacNayr's Limousine Service. On board was Playboy bunny Melissa Hastings, who, upon seeing Mrs. Kinney, realized that she had inadvertently entered the wrong limo. This, however, did not faze driver Todd Berozsky. Missy, crimson with embarrassment, jumped into the front seat while Berozsky put the limo in gear and drove Looby and Mrs. Kinney to the hotel. Arriving at the hotel, Mrs. Kinney was escorted to room B-201, where Suzanne Estee and Grace DeAngelis were putting the finishing touches on the interior. Others were soon to arrive. First to come were hairdressers Beth Hulevitch, Carolyn Dixon, and Jill Pitkat, along with cosmetologists Laura Thomas and Kelly Johnson, who together, attempted to give Mrs. Kinney a new identity.

In an effort to disguise the teacher's voice, a well-known Speech pathologist, Stacy Sciacchitano, was called in. Later in the evening, fashion designers Lisa Mandeville, Phyllis Tupek, and Maureen Clark designed an unpretentious and comfortable wardrobe for Mrs. Kinney that would serve her well during the following days. The fashions would later be sold exclusively to Tracey Johnson's clothing boutique, situated on the east side of the island. An always-caring Linda Carbonell, concerned about Mrs. Kinney's well-being, asked Bob Dyer to deliver a delightful bouquet of daisies from her own specialty flower shop. The inevitable question was soon raised as to whether their present accommodations were secluded enough to conceal Mrs. Kinney from the outside world—namely those persons affiliated with right-wing organizations established primarily to harass innocent followers of the Latin way. Agent Looby decided that it was time to move out. He ordered Joe Miarecki to find someone who could build an innovative and safe structure to secure the Latin teacher.

The Class of '87, having an abundance of architects and engineers, had no problem in finding someone to do the job. Gregg Norcross, Andrew Terry, Greg Waterman, Aaron Freyler, Brian Cigal, Mike Fitzgerald, Gary Colson, Mike Chapman, Deb Berry, and Paul Russell collaborated to create a highly-sophisticated sound-proof stucco domicile on waterfront property donated by real estate salespersons Jaydeen Martino and Vic Rizzo. Michael Whitney's Security Systems Unlimited contributed advanced security system. Because of the drabness of the inside, interior decorators Rob Long and Jackie Morrison were called to the scene, as were artists Cathy Hamman, Mike Russell, Howie Porter, an Suzy Gale, along with sculptor Jeff Taylor. Electronic Technicians Glenn Lemke and Tim Ramsey were called upon to install the lighting, while plumber Scott Nigro and his apprentices, Kevin Smith and Brian Patterson, handled the water system.

With an operation of this magnitude, high costs were anticipated. The class of '87, with its well-known knack for getting into serious financial difficulty, turned the finances over to the competent hands of accountants Charissa Fabi, Brian Boyd, Debra Mancini, Kristin Hynes and Susan Sych, who worked diligently under the tutelage of business administrators Susan Roche, Kathy Holbrook, Carri Permatteo and Jennifer Stafford. As feared, the operation had exceeded its budget. Word was sent out to classmates asking for contributions in order to decrease the size of the debt. Danny Minninger and George Krar, both successful business owners, sent very substantial donations from their Swiss bank accounts. Guitarists Scott Hefflon and John Bikowski, along with keyboardist A.J. Charman, staged a benefit concert to give some "Live Aid" to Latin. The proceeds of the concert were invested in various stocks and bonds by Erin Magnuson, Mike Pender, and Ricky Miner, large corporate investment bankers in New York City. Pro basketball player Annette Flynn, wife of Larry Bird, and Baroness Karen Parsons, followed the example of Krar and Minninger by giving very substantial monetary gifts. Work was also in progress by Sara Morrison and Jennifer Poulin who were busy writing Mrs. Kinney's life story. The nonprofit book was to be published by Brendan Mulligan's Copyright Company and marketed by Kim Straite, an expert in her field. The movie rights were later snapped up by Lou Hawkins, a renowned film producer, for a hefty twenty-five million. Advertising of the book was entrusted to Kelli Munday, an up-and-coming businesswoman of the 90's. These efforts exceeded all expectations and met all financial obligations; a "slush fund" was even created.

PROPHECY

Mrs. Kinney, incognito, was now prepared to be moved to her new abode. With Looby by her side, the teacher was transported via taxi with driver Bruce Roy at the wheel, to the outskirts of the city, to the notable St. Pauli Girl Brewery, co-owned by Eric Stolzenberg and Jeff Ruoss. From there, they slipped away on a somewhat cramped '75 Yamaha driven by Rodney Sherman, and headed in the night towards the airstrip. A jet, piloted by Pat Dunn and Brian Bellmore, was there to fly them to the newly-constructed compound. Mrs. Kinney was greeted by designated host, Chipper Schulte. Under the watchful eye of medical assistant Sharon Hinkley, registered nurse Kristin Komer, and doctor Nils Skrattegard, Mrs. Kinney was pumped into shape. Gym teacher Tom Mitchell and athletic trainers Susie Naughton and Mark Mandirola began with a cardiovascular workout, which consisted of running up and down five flights of stairs ninety-three times in high-heeled shoes. Next, Sara Reidy and Randy Raine took over with karate instructions. Psychologists Jacqui MacDonald and Suzanne Alers made Mrs. Kinney evaluate seventy-two ink blots designed by Brian Strniste, and later described her early childhood for a period of three hours. She then visited Kristen Quitno, who instructed her on the power of positive thinking. The evening's events were topped off by ex-Marines Wade Reid, Mike Stulpin, and Frank Schultz who hurled insults at the top of their lungs. Mrs. Kinney was now impenetrable, solid as a rock in every way.

Despite what most would think, her situation was at times boring. In order to while away the time, Mrs. Kinney proposed a seminar in which she would teach others the wonderful art of teaching Latin. Those attending the seminar were teachers Amy Davis, Kim Morrison, Natalie Hoar, Janet Lennon, and Lisa Watkins. Secretaries Jodi Sweatland and Beth Wood took notes and sent them by means of the butler, Scott Sabellico, to be copied for the future reference of those who had attended the meeting. The copying machine had broken down, and expert copying-machine technicians Kelly Perkins and Mike Sullivan were called to the scene to fix it.

Outside the compound, best friends Barbie Bennett and Elaine Hale, human rights advocates, hearing of Mrs. Kinney's plight, were spurred into action. The two women chained themselves to the pinnacle of a fifteen-story building and demanded that those threatening Mrs. Kinney confess and give themselves up. Firefighters Jeff Webster and Paul Murphy were assigned the task of cutting the chains and bringing them down. Jeff Borgio, an emergency medical technician, made sure that they were unhurt. Social workers Kim Hawkins and Stacie Golden were then asked to determine whether these women were still of sound mental judgement and able to function within society. After this rather extreme incident, it was decided that new measures ought to be taken in order to find the organization that was threatening Mrs. Kinney.

Private detective Chris Hargy, in cooperation with police chief Greg Lyon and his crew, Allyn LeBlanc, Todd Arciszewski, and Steven Sznajder, was called upon to further investigate the matter. Consequently, a renewed effort to keep Mrs. Kinney one step ahead, went into effect. Calls were made to longtime Japanese correspondents Masako Ogawa and Chihiro Onda, in order to arrange new accommodations. Surgeon Generals Jaime Hullinger and Renee Meunier were delegated to perform reconstructive surgery on Mrs. Kinney in order to make her resemble a Japanese citizen. The ten-hour operation went off without a hitch, with nurses Libby Egan, Shari Bligh, and anesthesiologist Patty Patterson, assisting. After a rewarding operation, Mrs. Kinney was transported on a large cargo ship, owned and operated by Rich and Joe Bazanno. The voyage to Japan abruptly came to a halt when the ship struck a stray iceberg off the southern coast of Oahu. Luckily, Rich was able to radio for help just before the ship became completely submerged. The Coast Guard arrived in the nick of time. Recruits David Galetta and Richard McQuillian retrieved the water-logged victims and brought them on board to warm them up. At this point, Looby was up in arms as to what to do.

Then, out of the blue, Matt and Mark Osowiecki, members of the U.S. Anti-Terrorism Unit, learned through underground liaison with government officials Alan Gawlik and Jeff Ford, that the entire terrorist threat was a cruel hoax to undermine Mrs. Kinney's teaching methods. It turned out that, in a moment of severe boredom, Matt Fitch had placed the call which triggered the train of events. Police officers Paul Deske and Jeff Roy, were on the scene to arrest the deranged individual. A banquet was later held in Mrs. Kinney's honor with the entire graduating class of '87 in attendance. Everyone was glad that the situation was finally over and that Mrs. Kinney was once again in safe hands. Then the phone rang...

Now we stand, and before us is a spread sea as vast as the stars.

A sun waits on the edge of the sea and sky . . .

You've known the question, but each must decide.

Sun-speckled blue reveals rainbow lands . . .

They are our dreams.

Good Luck To All My Friends — Love, Maureen

Times spent together,
We'll never forget.
Weekend night movies,
And plans that we set.

Our "private" talks,
Telling our fears.
Thinking about the future,
And sharing our tears.

Walks in the park, Remembering the past.
Cherishing times together,
As if they were our last.

The fun we've had,
May it never end.
We want it to last forever,
And always be the best of friends.

L. W. and J. S.

The 1987 Sagitta staff would like to express its gratitude to those people who made our yearbook a success. We extend our thanks to Mrs. Eileen Kinney, our advisor, Mr. Denny Galvin of Taylor Publishing Company, Mr. John F. *I learned this, at least,
by my experiment:
that if one advances confidently in the direction of his dreams, and endeavors to live the life
which he has imagined,
he will meet with a success
unexpected in common hours.
He will put some things behind,
will pass an invisible boundary;
new, universal and more liberal laws will begin to establish themselves around and within him;
or the old laws be expanded, and interpreted in his favor in a more liberal sense, and he will live with the license
of a higher order of beings.
In proportion as he simplifies
his life,
the laws of the universe will appear less complex,
and solitude will not be solitude,
nor poverty poverty,
nor weakness weakness.
If you have built castles in the air,
your work need not be lost;
that is where they should be.
Now put the foundations under them.*
